

THE BUFFALO EVENING NEWS has all the great world-wide news-gathering services—has had them for years. But it's not always what comes into a newspaper office so much as how stories from nearby or far-flung spots are co-ordinated by alert editors, and how news and pictures are tied up to tell a story. Public confidence in its dependability and completeness has made The Buffalo Evening News one of America's great newspapers.

In Memoriam

THESE RESIDENTS OF BUFFALO AND WESTERN NEW YORK GAVE THEIR LIVES FOR FREEDOM'S CAUSE IN WORLD WAR II

When war came on Dec. 7, 1941, the sons and daughters of Western New York unhesitatingly answered their country's call and manned the ramparts which were being threatened by a powerful enemy.

From shop and school, from hamlet and city, from farm and factory, they rallied to the flag for which their fathers and their fathers' fathers had fought.

In common with the rest of our peace-loving country, however, few of them were prepared in the ordinary military sense for the gigantic struggle ahead. The manual of arms, the Articles of War, and the complexity of modern weapons, for most, were heretofore unexplored mysteries, to be fathomed in faraway training camps and on the bloody battlefields of the world.

But what they lacked in military preparedness they made up in moral preparedness, in the far more important conviction, born at Bunker Hill and in Independence Hall and in the speeches of Patrick Henry, and never lost, that no price was too dear to pay for liberty, even life itself.

Many Western New Yorkers paid that price.

The magnitude of their sacrifice is measured by the white crosses which make their last resting places—whether in the fields of France, the sands of Africa or the coral strands that dot the South Pacific—as truly American as the land for which they gave their lives.

World War II cost Western New York more than double the number of lives than did the first World War.

When The Buffalo Evening News 1947 Almanac went to press, the total stood at 3913 dead and 131 still classed as missing, as compared with total casualties of 1476 for World War I. Of this war's number, 1835 were Buffalonians, with 24 additional Buffalonians listed as missing. Erie County, outside of Buffalo, listed 639 dead and 17 missing.

Totals for other counties follow:

	Dead	Missing
Niagara	312	33
Allegany	71	4
Cattaraugus	211	11
Chautauqua	306	25
Genesee	141	8
Orleans	112	7
Wyoming	86	2

These figures do not represent only those servicemen who were killed in action, but also includes those who lost their lives while in service, through illness or various accidents.

During the war, in addition, 2135 Buffalo servicemen were reported wounded, and 3211 from the eight Western New York counties outside of Buffalo.

The Western New York Roll of Honor was prepared by The Buffalo Evening News from its own files. Everything possible has been done to assure accuracy. Official casualty lists have been checked, Selective Service boards and various community and veterans' organizations consulted, and letters written to next of kin. However, because of sometimes incomplete reports from Government sources and the moving-away of families, there may be some omissions. Any such omissions are not intentional and in all cases The Buffalo Evening News would appreciate being notified of the names missed.

Following is the roll of sacrifice. It should serve also as a scroll of remembrance, that we who are alive and free today by virtue of their sacrifices may never forget the sacred trust imposed upon us by their death, the obligation to maintain forever the things for which they fought—freedom, equal justice and equal opportunity for all men everywhere.

Buffalo's Memorial Auditorium Is Dedicated to Those Who Died in Service.
